6. Comments to Author (Suggestions for Improvement):

The abstract captures the main theme of your paper well. You should provide more general background information about each of these three approaches: Virtualization, Virtual Ghost and Exokernel. Virtual Ghost is the name of the software so you should capitalize it. Your paper's organization was ok but you should separate the similarities and differences into two different sections. In fact, you only talked about the differences between the three approaches and I found no similarities in your paper. I think section 3 should be a subsection of section 2. In my opinion, the first sentence of your conclusion is wrong. OS developers don't consider applications as enemy of the system. There are several missing commas in your writing.
